Dr. Mitchell's Racy Letter

Your letter of October 16 was received; your frankness was and is appreciated; many people are afraid, or think it is, to speak or write what they believe.

Talking of expediency: Many persons, especially those who desire to control the affairs of the mass, believe that they will actually strive to enforce the law. But he will not, has no intention of doing so. It would not be expedient. The Republic must be made a good little machine and make a good little machine of it, although he will probably be the burden of the little machine.

The Milton fortune was made distilling waters. I am told. It is the story of the Secretary of the Treasury in the Eighteenth Amendment. The government consists, however, in effect, of the farmer from selling sugar and the individual peddler of bootleg. The Big Boys handle it by the carload, those who interfere, pay their money taxes and all goes merrily on.

For three days I have been busy with my work, putting out notices with me. Have arranged to begin the next Monday. Have the matter for some, some of the cement and a quantity of water-proofing already at the house. Have a power pump to take care of sewage, trucks engaged to haul gravel and all else as near ready as it is possible to arrange. Now I am for good weather.

I have a small bet that we will find as many holes at the bottom big enough to run my arm to be in full swing. I think I'll win the bet.

Talk about old men being of no use. How do you get that way? I can make good use of nine-tenths of the young people in such as loafing, cheating, and doing work in such a way that it will have to be done over in a short time.

A wall of detached stone, with no cement, my father built 53 years ago. It is still standing today, while a cement wall that was done a few years ago is now falling down. I was taught to do, not to build, but to endure. In fact, I am a happy-go-lucky when I am not engaged.

You write: "No one can get work at home." Why? What has age to do with it? It is a discredited idea that has been in the public mind. I am 53 years old and one has lived, it is a question of body and mind. I can work as long as my many hours per day. I am not in my career. I can think, I can do, and at any previous time, I have the advantage of all the experience and observation that has come to me.

HIGH SCHOOL VALUABLE

A recent survey of five widely separated states shows that 3.15 per cent of the farm population is enrolled in high schools, compared with 3.53 of the non-farm population going beyond the grades. This should give pause to the people who regard the farm as a back woods area where education is not rated very high.

Such a state of affairs is rapidly passing in most rural communities due to the centralizing of high schools and the realization upon the part of parents that their children should have at least a high school education in order to make their way in the world.

It has been proved beyond all argument that a high school education is valuable to the tiller of the soil, just as it is to the pupil who goes into the mercantile business or takes up one of the professions.

A survey of three representative areas in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa shows that tenant farmers with a high school education receive an average annual labor return of $225 a year more than the men with only a common school education.

A college education will add to this average of $435 a year, making the income of college graduates $675 more than the labor earnings of the men with common school education.

With the preponderance of the evidence on the side of education, every thinking boy and girl will endeavor to go as far as it is humanly possible for them to go in acquiring knowledge.

Letter from Long Beach, California

Mrs. Guy Morgan of Bethel sends us a letter from her sister in Long Beach, California. She speaks of the family party held at their parent's home the Sunday before they left for California. This was in the form of a farewell dinner with 15 guests, including Mr. and Mrs. Guy Morgan and family of Bethel, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Pike and five children of West Paris, and Mrs. Agnes B. Pike of Greene.

Long Beach, California, October 15, 1928. Dear sister: Will write a few lines tonight to let you know we are all O. K. and having a good time. The folks arrived at 8 P. M. Saturday at 12:30 noon. They didn't seem tired and had a nice trip, got into the show room and it made up for the long hours late, but they made up for it by only two hours and fifteen minutes late when they got here. We were all so glad to see them and they looked just like the ones we had seen when I saw them last but a few days ago.

We gave them about a thirty mile ride Sunday morn. and Sunday 1:30, and were very happy to see you. We kept them entertained so they didn't get homesick. They got their first mail from home in their cabin. It's nice to hear from you and we can talk from the windows. We went to Redondo this p. m. and saw the longest salt water plunge in the world.

We wrote me about the big feed you had at the pictures. I want to see some of those pictures. I took one of them at the station before they got into the train and will take some more soon. I thought you were homey to-day. We seem to enjoy ourselves. I know mamma is having a good time. Yesterday, Lee and Marm and I with Mr. and Mrs. Brooks went for a 150 mile ride and they stopped several times and hunted for rabbits. You ought to see how excited Pa got chasing with Lee after them with a big shot gun. They got on a big jack rabbit and pa says, "Here goes a fox." It pleased Lee. It was a big one. Mr. B shot one small one and gave it to pa. They had it for their dinner to-day. It got to be around 3:30 p. m. and Lee said we must stop at another place. Pa says, "It's getting rather late, we better get home, don't we?" Lee says we haven't any more anything to do when we get home, so why hurry. "Well," says pa, "nothing to do, I never was in that place before." The way he said it, I thought I should work. It was too funny for anything, I said, "aren't you having a good time?" He said, "yes," and perhaps he would get used to it after awhile. I do hope he will like it and stay and I think he may find some business he can do to earn a little money and then he will be contented. He fixed a chair and helped me fix this a m. He has some small jobs to do tomorrow, fixing a table and he is going to put some new fixtures on the electric lights that have a pull chain as ours have a button to turn. We had our radio fixed as we feared rain and it was lucky we did for we had a heavy rain the day before they came.

"It has been lovely today, warm and sunny," they said there were ten inches of snow up to our cabin. We want to go on but guess we better wait until it warms up a little. Don't think it will be long. I go to school tomorrow, p. m. with my son, much love, from Vi.

October 24th, a large crowd saw the Bridgton team play a much improved game of hockey and the girls showed much more skill and far better team work than in their first engagement.

The Bridgton girls also lost this contest by the same score of 3-0 to the Fryeburg ladies. However, those who witnessed both games saw a much faster and better organized Bridgton eleven and the girls showed that they had received excellent coaching under the guidance of Miss Louise Paul, athletic director for girls at Bridgton Academy.

At two o'clock in the Bungalow Playhouse in Harrison several reels of moving pictures, upon field hockey was witnessed by members of both the Fryeburg and Bridgton teams and then the two teams went to the Chadbourne Athletic field, where the game was played before an enthusiastic gathering of parents and students.

Ruth Skilling, Ruth Rounds, and Captain Elizabeth Millett were the outstanding players for the Bridgton eleven, while Hilma Pulkkinen of the Bridgton team showed such remarkable improvement over the first encounter, that she was successful in making some twenty stops which would have proved fatal to the Bridgton side. Captain Wentworth, Pendexter, and Pratt were the shining lights for the visitors and did all of the scoring.

Aunt Mary says: "If women become bald-headed from bobbed hair and tight hats there will be a demand for wigs. We know some women who are wearing wigs now but not on account of bobbed hair. There is no girl or woman who has seen who looks half so pretty with her hair bobbed and when they don the prevailing style of hats they resemble the monkey race more than ever. To me there is nothing that adds to a woman's beauty so much as a nice head of hair well dressed, but they claim that bobs have come to stay."

Mrs. Hall in Hospital—Davis on Hunting Trip—Mrs. Waterhouse Gaining—Harvest Supper a Success.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Taylor went to Lewiston, Saturday afternoon to see his mother, Mrs. Ada Hall, who is in the C. M. G. Hospital for treatment for diabetes.

The annual harvest supper furnished by the Ladies' Aid of Bryant's Pond, had its usual number of friends, who ate as though they were accustomed so to do. And said that what they had to eat was bountiful and abounding in quality. They gave it, and it was the best. The vegetables were fine, and found a ready market. A plenty of willing and efficient workers lightened the labor, so the task became a joyous service. Good will and cheer so much abounded that service was a delight.

Rev. F. H. Knollin of Waterville, Me., director of Religious Education in Maine will be with the good people of Bryant's Pond, November the 11th, preaching in the morning and perhaps attending all of the services of the day. This is the memorable Armistice day.

The annual business meeting of Bryant's Pond Baptist church will convene at the close of the morning service, Sunday, November, 4th.

The new Buick is the new Style

Men and women on every street-- in every city and town -- are pronouncing the new BUICK, with Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher, the most beautiful automobile of the day.

Never before in the history of motor car manufacture have the motorists of America welcomed any new automobile as they are welcoming the Silver Anniversary Buick with new Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher!

Sweeping into the market at a time when motor car lines were practically standardized—when imitation was destroying individuality—these epic Buick creations introduced an entirely new mode—

A mode of body-symmetry—of size and magnificence—of soft contours instead of straight lines—of embossed side and hood panels involving the most costly steel paneling work employed on any car in the world!

And as the weeks have passed—and the full significance of Buick's achievement has become apparent to the public—enthusiasm for this car has swelled and grown to unprecedented proportions!

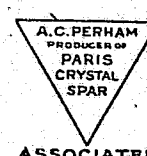

Buick sales records have been broken! Production schedules have been increased again and again! The great Buick plants are working to the limit of their capacity to supply the demand.

THE public, with its healthy desire for the new and the better, insists upon continuous improvement, and will withdraw its patronage from any product or service which stands still.

Nowhere is this more true than in the automobile industry. The car is more than a utility. It is a personal thing, involving your convenience, your comfort, your safety, your sense of beauty and color, your pride of ownership, your complete environment for many hours of your life. Customs and habits of living change fast; and the past holds many warnings of how quickly your favor can shift when an automobile, for even a single year, fails to show progress.

So continuous improvement is more than a policy with General Motors. It is a vital necessity

THE PUBLIC DEMANDS NEW MODELS

And the public is right. Out of that demand have come electric starting and lighting, the closed body, Duco finish, four-wheel brakes and hundreds of refinements, big and little. Improvements that might have taken a generation have been born within a few years because people want greater performance, beauty and comfort.

Equipped with the largest research laboratories, proving ground and body building plants, and guided by an Open Mind which is ready to revise its thinking in response to new facts, General Motors believes that it is peculiarly fitted not only to sense but to anticipate public demand and to give the people better automobiles at better values year after year.

As evidence of that faith we presented some months ago the New Chevrolet, the New Pontiac, the New Oldsmobile. And now we offer, with equal pride, the New Buick, the New Cadillac, the New LaSalle and the New Oakland.

Are We Getting Anywhere

The editors of the Bridgton News have the Portland Evening News have been discussing "Portland Trust," the Insuls, etc. The paper felt an investigation should be made by a State commission and a report be made on the situation. The rejoinder from the Bridgton paper follows:

"We are indebted to the Portland Evening News, for a very careful and exhaustive exposure of the alleged financial transactions of the Insull power in Maine, with which the power company, as we understand, is connected. In response to our request for information, as expressed in a recent Editorial query, as to what a report the Portland News proposed to make to relieve the people of the country from the machinations of the Insuls, under which it is made, the 'Portland News' has made the following statement:

"We are of course interested in the phase of the situation but cannot be readily responsive to our query. It does not seem to satisfy our yearning for information."

The Portland News offers as a acea for those troubles an investigation sponsored by the state. Investigation does not seem to have a very strong appeal for us for the reason that they are productive of any beneficial results, are all fed up on investigations.

"We had a state investigation ten or fifteen years ago of the coal nation, but it did not reduce the price

"We have had an investigation of State Hospital. The superintendent of his job and a year or so after, showed up as superintendent of the State City Farm.

"We had an investigation of the departments, especially by the late A. Cole. The committee prepared an extensive report setting forth its recommendations. None of these recommendations were ever adopted.

"The legislature never took any action any of the points stressed and personally saw bundles of it copy sent to the reports handed off by the chairman - and that even before the legislature to which the report was made had adjourned.

"We had an investigation of the highway commission a couple of years ago and the only thing it accomplished was to lose to the state the services of the best road engineer any state had, not because anything was wrong against him but because he was tire fighting made the goat."

"We have a Public Utilities Commission, which is supposed to look after things as the Portland News says, but it costs us about $200,000 a year to run this commission, but we have never heard of any great thing it ever accomplished for the people. If the commission would take charge of the water supply, take charge of the

"We are not so sure but there some justice in this, for a company which can do nothing to prevent the big railroads of the state from hilling down a little Narrow Gauge road, whose operation is vital to the interests of the communities it serves, is not the small company that should be paid $100,000 in dividends in a dozen years and when the $170,000 bonds are repudiating them and spewing forth the remains of the little road, for the community to clean up, surely cannot be met with any such situation as the Port paper complains of.

We are interested in rural electrification and we would like to see the farm communities of this region provided with electricity at a price which they can afford to pay, but we cannot see how investigation will bring about this desired result, for you cannot make a corporation do anything it refuses to do any more than you can make a private individual.

"It might be possible to wrest franchise from such a corporation. I was not playing fair with the people, how much better off would we be at."

"Living within a short distance of our grocers the probability is that we should telephone him in a hurry, bring up a yeast cake, he would not require our requisition, but if we lived ten or twelve miles in the country we would not expect him to send his truck driver to make the delivery at the retail price for the reason that the distance, the cost of gas and the wear and tear on the truck would be mere he would get out of the yeast cake

"What we really wanted to know how are we going to get electricity
the farmers, if the power companies control of the situation does not to string their wires over miles productive country?"

"As we have already said we are interested in the rural sections of particular locality and want them to have electricity at the earliest possible moment, but it rather gets on our nerves when the political spellbinders and opponents of the power companies are putting out these false hopes to the farmers unless they have some plausible proposal by which they can be served."

"The only way which we can see which the farmer is to be provided electricity at a price which he can pay is at the expense of the customers, the more thickly portions of the country for the company be it privately or state owned if it is to string lines to the country and maintain them. It will not receive sufficient revenue from the country to compensate it for the source to sustain from its country."
